Yell moved to strike out the enacting clause. Mr. White, was read a third time.

Yell moved to strike out the enacting clause of the bill. He said that he did so because he believed it to be the inflicion of additional burdens upon those who are compelled to commence actions to secure their rights. It was a discrimination in favor of the lawyers of the state, and forced upon litigants an additional tax of $2.50 upon every action they are compelled to bring. He also pointed out that the bill would act unevenly in different counties. He was aware that the bill would be turnished to lawyers any more than to physicians or other classes.

son why libraries should be turnished to lawyers any more than to physicians or other classes.

[Mr. Goucher in the chair.]

White spoke earnestly in favor of his bill. He said that Mr. Yell did not understand the bill. It was the same in effect as the law under which the Law Library of San Francisco was organized. Any county which did not want a law library need not have it.

Bowers denounced the bill as unconstitutional. He claimed that it was special legisla. Jowers denounced the bill as unconstitu-nal. He claimed that it was special legisla-n of the worst kind. Campbell introduced a resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee of three to investigate charges that the Trustees of the Northern Branch Normal School at Chico had required men to work ten hours per day, in violation of the law, and also that the workmen did not receive the full *mount charged the State. It was ordered printed and laid over for one day.

There has been much litigation since 1880. As a result of it, the following propositions have been established:

For this reason, I have never seriously considered that there was any probability of its becoming a law. Now, that California is rapidly advancing in prosperity, that immigration is flowing in and that lands are passing from hand to hand almost without cessation and at enhanced values, every man, in the Legislature and out of it, is deeply interested in seeing that titles should not be unsettled and clouds thrown upon the wint to converse and upon the right to convey and mortgage prop

So long as these persons control this system the State can be sure that whether the assessment is legal or illegal, yet if it is fair, equitable and just, it will be paid. In the nature of things this property will change hands. I's control and management will pass to others who may not be identified with our people, to those who may not be willing to perform these obligations. obligations.

One word more; it has been stated in the ne wspapers and, I believe, by some of the State official, that the records upon which some of these cases were heard showed that tences had been assessed, when such was not the fact. As a complete answer to this, I begt to refer you to Wolume 118 of the United States Supreme Court Reports, to the argument of Mr. Del mas, therein reported at pages 396 and 397. In the presence of that Court, Mr. Delmas, an attorney of marked ability, who was thoroughly conversant with all the facts, who had tream the lower Court the tases which he was arguing, who had been selected as the adviser of the Courtoller and I think perhaps of the State Board of Equalization, a though other things said. It has been the earnest desire of the railroad empany not only met to take any part in the egislation of the Esse, but not to seem to do so. The interests of the managers are blended with the interests of the managers are blended with the interests of the people of this State in such a manner that they cannot be separated without doing violence to both. No just and equitable laws can be passed which will not berefit both; no unjust or discriminating legislation can be had which will not injure both. Resting secure in this belief and in the judgment and integrity of the persons chosen to make laws, and confiding in the honesty and wisdome of the people of this country, they are content to find in these things that security for rights and that protection to life, liberty and property, to give which this Government was instituted, and to protect which its written Constitutions were ordained.

DAILY RECORD-UNION

WCDNESDAY FEBRUARY 6, 1889

A DANGEROUS PROPOSITION.

Senate bill 353 provides that the State Board of Education, in estimating the cost and selling price of the State text-books, shall include only the cost of materials used in the manufacture of the books, together with the cost of press-work and binding. This is all there is of this five-line bill, upon the surface. But back of it is a policy, that if adopted may work the destruction of the whole State system of text-books. It will exclude the cost of compilation and editing, type-setting, engraving, eletrotypin , distribution, salaries of employes engaged directly upon the work, wear and tear of material necessary to the work, proof-reading, etc. Under the present policy, which is defined by the Constitution, the cost of production includes all labor put upon the books from the time the pen is first put to paper; it includes also the cost of the plant and of distributing the books. The cost of compilation and editing is distributed over a period of eight years of estimated sales and the cost of the plant over twelve years. The bill in question, therefore, proposes that by general taxation all the cost of producing the books, outside of materials, press-work and binding, shall be distributed among all the people. Upon its face, and at first blush, this would seem just, since the cost of school maintenance is discovered to be dangerous to the whole State policy of publishing the books, for to States may be redeemed by irrigation each Legislature will be presented the It should be remembered that about two-fifths of the tillable lands in the United other costs of production and distribution States require irrigation to insure any reunder calls for appropriations. Thus the turn for cultivation. The Government now has very little land left that can be farmed matter will be presented as a constant source of taxation and a spirit antagonistic to the system be accordingly encouraged. Herein lies the insidious character of the measure, though its immediate author, may not be awake to it.

If at any time it becomes necessary to revise a book, to issue a new edition with additions and improvements, or to add a new book to the series, the cost will become the subject of a special appropriation bill, and a source of irritation against the whole system. So, too, the costly and necessary plant of type, presses, binder's machinery and tools will, under this bill, become immediate charges against the State Treasury, with no hope of repayment; whereas, under the present system, said in substance: This is to be an imsioners Comstock, Slater and Weil, Chief State Treasury, with no hope-of repayevery dollar will be returned. So, also, mense work, lasting through years to come. O'Meara, Auditor McKee, the firemen of the cost of distribution now chargable to the book sales will become an annual State charge, and require a special appropriation. By these means the enemies of the system will be enabled to assail it by pointing out that it is a constant cost to the State, and an element of continued

Now, as a matter of fact, under the present system there is no complaint by the people. They get the text-tooks from 40 to 50 per cent. cheaper than ever before; they are freed from the importunities corruption and political intermeddling by the book rings; the parent who uses the books and receives the immediate benefits pays such an infinitesimal part of the cost of the compilation, plant and distribution that it is scarcely appreciable, and these costs are kept out of the tax rate. In short, the plan of the present system makes it self-supporting, whereas Senate bill 353 breaks up that fundamental pring other States and Territories probably will ciple and destroys a central idea of the whole scheme. There is no reason for the opens an avenue of assault upon the State text-books that their enemies, if they have not conspired to create, will at least im nediately avail themselves of. Finally, the books are now furnished to the people at absolute cost, but the very parties who are seeking to reduce the price elow cost are the men who have in the past been most conspicuous in the endeavor to fasten the book rings upon the people permanently, and wring from them exhorbitant prices, from which the book syndicates draw enormous profits.

THE STEAM ENGINEER BILL.

Assembly bill 52, generally known as the Engineer bill, if adopted in its present form, will break up hundreds of small industries. It will crowd frem the industrial field regiments of hard workers in a small way, who are valuable contributors to the general prosperity. There are scores of men who have small steam powers to operate their very limited factories, lathes, presses, and cutting and pressing machines, who are successful in their use, seldom, if ever, have an accident, but engineer exclusively to do. The large majority of accidents in the use of steam occur where there is great horse power used, and not where small engines are emploved. The bill excepts portable engines from its operations, and those of the harvest and irrigation field, when the truth is that the portable is greatly more dangerthan the stationary engine, and by reason of its being portable is more liable to promiscuous misuse. If a wood paring a report in compliance with it. sawyer may cart an engine and a boiler with a full head of steam, about the streets to reduce woodpiles to convenient stove lengths, why may not the small manufat urers or the woodyard proprietors, employ in their industries, housed stationary engines? If the harvest field engine, which is the most exposed to misuse and accident, is to be excepted, why prevent the small manufacturer from running an en,ine of similar power for his own uses without employing a licensed engineer? It may be well to require of all who uses steam power, sufficient general knowledge of how to handle the force they employ, to qualify them to a limited extent; so too to the rigid inspection of all biolises the properties there is general approval. But as the bill is now understood to stand, it plays into the hands of large manufacturers, and is a "boom" for electrical, gas, and water motor manufacturers, and is a "boom" for electrical, gas, and water motor manufacturers, and is a "boom" for electrical, gas, and water motor manufacturers, and is a "boom" for cleatric and impure blood than agree though give a content of the specific subjects of the spec accident, is to be excepted, why prevent

Mr. Wm. H. Hall, State Engineer. Sacramento,

through the press that Congress at its last session decided that an irrigation survey should be made of the arid lands. Your long experience and eminent service to the State of California in this field of investigation make me desire to have a c uference with you in relation to the

and by what means and at what cost, and the law goes on to direct that special examinaion shall be made with reference to the possibilities of storing waters on a large scale. Storage sites are to be reserved and irrigable lands are to be reserved from sale until the Government can further determine what policy it will adopt in the disposal of such lands and storage sites.

The estimated cost is $4,000,000, which is in addition to an estimated amount of $20,000,000 to omplete the geological survey. This geological survey is sustained by an annual appropriation of about $500,000, and now e House of Representatives has agreed to an additional sum of $250,000 per year for

Mr. H.—Yes; California will ultimately get her share, in proportion to the area of arid Government lands in the State, of which there seems to be any possibility of But, as you know, there are no considerable bodies of Government irriga-ble lands left in this State, except it be in he northeastern counties, in the counties east of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and on the deserts south and east of the presen cultivated parts of the State. The Supreme Court decided that the law of 1861 was in force, but the Assessor had been in error in assessing and the city lost the case. We have always collected our taxes and can confinue to do so. That is a question and sister the continued under the new charter, if the continued under th adopted. I don't think so. That is a question between lawyers and we have no tribunal to decide it. A new charter would wipe out all Commissions. Some are in favor of abolishing the Commission and then refunding the debt at 4 per cent. The interest the past year on our debt was $30,600 and the debt will be wiped out in ten years. There are outstanding $1,002,000 which would have to be refunded at 4 per cent., and over 400,000 past due coupons, or in round numbers we would have to refund $1,400,000. Dr. C. B. Nichols, a recent arrival in the city, was elected City Physician to succeed Dr. Parkinson, at a salary of $75 per month. He is said to be a gentleman who has had considerable experience in the management of hospitals, and well qualified for the position. He was elected upon the votes of Ross, Bates and Tebbets. County Auditor F. T. Johnson appeared before the Board, and asked that he be allowed two deputies for three weeks to enable him to make a new mortgage index book. It appears from his statement that many mortgages had been assessed that had been cancelled years ago, and that such an index was absolutely necessary. The request did not meet with much favor, Supervisor Greer saying that he believed the Board had already exceeded their power in Board had already exceeded their power in that direction, Finally the matter was re-

Judge H. O. Beatty, another member of the Funded Debt Commission, said that one reason urged by some for the necessity of a new charter was an assertion that the collection of city taxes could not be enforced. T. J. Clunie was sued for taxes. He set up as a defense that the law of 1861 was repealed by the codes. Another defense was that two lots had been assessed together when the law says they shall be assessed separately. Miss Kate Mayhew's presentation of the "Jealous Wife" last night was a great improvement-a surprise indeed to all present, who saw the company the first night. The nervousness was over, the inaccuracy of reading corrected and the charming old comedy went merrily enough to satisfy good taste. Miss Maybew has capacity for cipal, at a salary not to exceed one bundred dollars per month, to be paid at the times and in the manner that said principal is paid. The exceptions contained in this section to the general rule prescribed by it, considered in connection with Section 166, indicates the intention of the Legislature to exclude all other exceptions from the Board of Supervisors to allow the Sheriff certain expenses as an exception to the general rule, but the section is silent as to the traveling expenses of the Superintendent of Schools.

Daisy Meeker, whose relations with a police officer of the capital city created a scandal a few months since, has returned to Sacramento after brief absence. Yesterday she met at Fourth and J the said person with whom she formerly held relations, and who has since become starless. She at once set about making him " see stars " by clubbing im over the head and otherwise dishevel ing his good looks. He very soon granted himself a hasty leave of absence from the scene of his unexpected troubles, and thereby escaped further castigation.

Gambetta Last Night.

Mr. Armstrong spoke to 500 people on Gambetta at the Congregational Church last night. The audience was representative of the best intelligence of the city, and listened with close attention to the end. The subject covered the most dramatic period of French history, and Mr. Armstrong may well feel gratified by the evidently pleased reception accorded him. The lecture was a fitting second in the course of the Lecture Association so brilliantly inargurated by the Perton Course. iantly inaugurated by the Boston Quinter Club a few weeks ago. The Tariff Bill.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.] CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

In the Senate.

Washington, February 5th. — The Senate wrangled for two hours this morning over the reference of the bill to create the Oklahoma Territory, Senator Dawes representing the wishes of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe party, moved to refer the bill to the Indian Affairs Committee, in which it was believed it would receive speedier action than in the Committee on Territories. By vote of 39 to 12, however, the bill was referred to the Committee on Territories. ories.
wley offered an amendment to the sundry supropriation bill, which was referred to Hawley offered an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, for the payment to the widow of General Sheridan $5,000.

The House joint resolution for the payment of $500,000 [?] to the representatives of the late Jas. B. Eads was taken up and passed.

The legislative, executive and judiciary appropriation bill was then taken up. The amendments to the bill reported from the Committee on Appropriations were agreed to without question. They were few and unimportant, the only noticeable one being that increasing the salary of the President's Private Secretary from $3,250 to $5,000.

$3,250 to $5,000.

An amendment offered by Hawley to increase the clerical force of the Civil Service Commission provoked a discussion on the question of civil service reform, during which Stewart characterized the present system as "a broad farce," and Plumb said that partisanship of the most desperate character had been practiced in its administration. s administration.

Before the discussion ceased the conference report on the bill amendatory of the interstate commerce law was passed and read. The conference commerce law was passed and read. ference committee not having agreed on the House amendments in reference to the transportation of oil, Sherman moved to concur in that amendment, is being in the line of interstate commerce law.

Plat argued against the amendment.

While the discussion was still in progress.

While the discussion was still in progress Riddleberger made an effort to have an executive session, so as to remove the obligation of secrecy from the proceedings on the British extradition treaty, but a motion to adjourn prevailed, leaving the conference report and legislative appropriation bill not discosed of.

Washington, February 5th.—The consideration of the Nicarague Canal bill conference report was resumed in the House.

Cobb of Alabama urged the rejection of the report. He said although the House had adopted some amendments in a formal manner by a yearand-nay vote, yet the Conference Committee had rejected them. The rejected amendments, he said, were the ones that were the most obnox ous to the promoters of this enterprise. His own amendment, requiring a declaration of non-liability by the United States to be printed on each bond issued by the company, had been rejected and no reason given for it.

Raynor, one of the conference, explained that the committee thought it unnecessary to print this declaration when it was expressly stated in the body of the charter.

Cobb continued his speech, making objections. In the House.

this declaration when it was expressly stated in the body of the charter.

Cobb continued his speech, making objections to the conference report in toto.

Raynor, replying to attacks made by Cobb, defended the constitutionality of the Nicaraguan bill, and refuted Cobb's allegations that Congress has no right to grant this charter.

Bland then took the floor to make a set speech against agreeing to the report.

Nearly all of the remaining hour was occupled by Wilson of Minnesota in a speech directed against the bill generally, and making an argument to show why the amendments that were stricken out should have been left in.

"The evidence before the committee showed that no attempts had been made by the authorities of the county or State to bring to punishment or trial any of the actors in the several raids on the ballot-boxes in 1884 or 1885."

The committee says in conclusion: "This case presents, not unfairly, the features that illustrate the political disorders which afflict portions of our country where the population is at all nearly divided between white and colored citizens. These disorders tend to set back the sincere desire of the country at large to obliterate all distinctions as between geographical or political divisions in the prevalence of justice, peace, good will and equality of right in the discussion and solving of all problems which affect the welfare of this people."

Grady's Idea of a stump Speech.

Albany, February 5th.—Rev. S. Leach, Methodist, opened the Senate with prayer this morning. He denounced the liquor power as corporations which buy votes, and said the balance of power in the big cities was held by ignorant foreigners. The queer outcome of this was a motion by Senator Grady not to allow Leach to pray hereafter, on the ground that his prayer was a stump speech. The matter was finally dropped, after a warm discussion.
